विकारो नामाकुशलो न जिन्हीयात् कदाचन ।

Dedicated to the innumerable Vaidya who have been treating the various diseases with success by the use of Standardised, effective and safe medicines taking into consideration the Sthiti, Avastha and Sthanadi Bheda of Dosha irrespective of nomenclature of the disease as per the Siddhanta profounded by Charakacharya.

Preface

चतुर्णां भिषगादीनां शस्तानां धातुवैकृते।
प्रवृत्तिः धातु साम्यार्था चिकित्सेत्यभिधीयते।।

Charakacharyaji has mentioned Vaidya as the most important while describing the Chikitsa Chatushpada. This is because 'Chikitsa' is just impossible without the Bhishak, i.e. Vaidya. Vaidya decides the line of treatment by examining the patient and magnitude of the Doshadushti. The Drug/Medicine which has been selected on the basis of accurate diagnosis plays an important role. Thus, the important part of the Chikitsa is, 'Medicine'/'Aushadhi'. The Medicines prepared by the appropriate combination of the ingredients in the proper quantity as mentioned in the text prove helpful in the Chikitsa.

In ancient time, the Vaidya fraternity was using the Dravya brought by their own. Over a period of time, this tradition has vanished bringing the need of the availability of quality medicines.

It is most important for an Ayurved medicine to be completely safe whether it is herbal, animal originated or a mineral. It should be standardized inspite of being Granthokta or Anubhoota. This medicine which is taken under guidance of the Vaidya proves helpful for the patient for regaining the health.

Quality medicines are capable of delivering expected results. One can find the detail reference about the duration, media of the Sanskar while preparing each and every medicine. Whatever be the quantity of the medicine, these procedures should be followed also in today's time. Thus, it is very important to follow and keep an eye on the selection of raw material, the Granthokta Sanskar and its duration. It is also important to examine the end product whether it is prepared as expected. This is applicable for industrial level also.

Standardization is strictly followed at every stage of the production of the medicine. Ayurved as well as modern parameters are applied to the raw material of the medicine which are undergoing Sanskar as well as after completion of the Sanskar. The Sanskar like Bhavana, Kuttan etc. are followed as mentioned in Granthokta method under the Shree Dhootapapeshwar Standards. A medicine selected by random sampling method is again tested on Shree Dhootapapeshwar Standards. If these criteria are fulfilled, then only the product is made available for the use of patients.

Thus, the importance of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Standards is known worldwide which proves the superiority of the product of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited.

Standardisation

Everything is being standardized today whether its an object, food or may it be an Ayurvedic medicine. Standardization is extremely essential in order to deliver the user proper quality end product.

Chemical laboratory of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited is established way back in early 1950's to maintain the authenticity of Ayurved medicines, to balance in between the ingredients and their properties as well as to avail the Ayurvedic medicines all the time for use.

Some opinions say that, there is no need of standardization of Ayurved medicines which is applicable to modern medicines.

Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited has always given importance to standardization. Standardization not only helps in quality assurance of the ingredient in any medicines but also helps examine dose of the drug remain in the same form in all sets or not. It also helps understand whether the formulated medicines will remain in same state, are there any changes getting developed after specific time, if yes, then what are the changes and causes for that along with finding out the solutions depending upon the situation. It is mandatory to have the knowledge about the changes developed due to the Sanskar like Shodhan etc. of the ingredients, whether there is uniformity in the Sanskar or not? e. g. Samanya Shodhan of Guggul along with the Vishesh Shodhan with disease specific Dravya enhanced the efficacy of Guggul as well as reduced the irritancy. Chemical laboratory is the only media through which we are able to understand increased beneficial properties after following the Shastravachan (text). Rasakalpa and Bhasma are very important in Ayurved. Suvarnadi Rasadhatu, Parad, Gandhak etc. are specially used in the production of Rasakalpa and Bhasma. Inappropriate Shodhan and Maran Sanskar of these ingredients may develop harm to the body. Standardization is an inevitable process to know whether these Sanskar have been performed in appropriate manner or not. Shree

Dhootapapeshwar Limited is keen for Standardization of these Bhasma and Rasakalpa both on Ayurvedic as well as Modern Parameters.

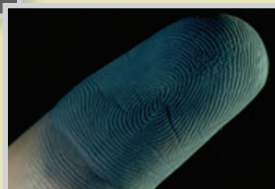

This Laboratory of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. is awarded with N.A.B.L. accreditation. This laboratory has facilities of modern tests such as Atomic absorption Spectrophotometer, H.P.T.L.C., Gas Chromatography etc.

Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited has developed its 'Shree Dhootapapeshwar Standards' with the help of this laboratory. These standards are applicable at every level of manufacturing from the crude ingredient to the end product. This makes all the products of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. authentic, standardized, safe and efficacious. All the medicines of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. are made available in market only after standardization of every batch.

Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited has provided every product with its monograph on our website www.sdlindia.com for everyone to get the information. This is nation's first Ayurvedic Company which has made the product monograph available to the consumer for transparency. ■■

Avaleha

Leha has been derived from 'Lih' means to lick. The formulation which can be licked by tongue is Avaleha.

The formulations and the preparation processes were so designed to make them more and more assimilable to the human body. Avaleha is one of them.

When a baby starts growing, it first drinks mother's milk and then after that the next form of food advised to consume is by licking. This is only because the medicine in the Avaleha or leha form gets easily assimilated in the body tissue as digestion of an Avaleha starts right from the tongue.

While making an Avaleha, the consistency of the Kwath or Decoction is made denser. But, it is also essential to make it tastier and palatable for which Jaggery, Sugar, Honey, etc. are used.

Avaleha can also be made by adding Guda [Jaggery] or sugar to the Kwath or Swarasa mentioned in the formulation and cooked alongwith it and then adding Kalka of medicinal herbs, honey etc. to give it a form that can be licked i.e. Leha.

Avaleha is most appreciated by all age groups.

Avaleha preparations also have longer shelf life and long lasting results.

During process of Avaleha to avoid Kharapak and to get equivalent heat, steam jacketed vessels are used at Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited.

The famous example of Avaleha is Chyavanprash. Texts mention that by consuming this, Chyavan Rhishi got back his youth. The meaning is, Avaleha are the better Rasayan.

Excellent Rasayan and Balya Avaleha with main ingredient Amla and other Jeevaniya Dravya. It helps in prevention of disorders by providing appropriate nourishment to the Sapta Dhātu and increasing immunity. It is beneficial for disorders of Pranavaha Srotas and Jeerna Vyadhi.

Being Vatatapik Rasayan, Chyavanprash (Ashtavarga) can be used in all the seasons for maintenance of health.

Suvarnakalpa

Premium Quality

An Ayurvedic formulation containing Suvarna Bhasma as one of its important ingredient is called Suvarnakalpa.

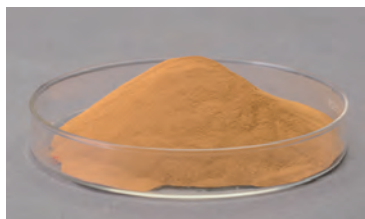

Suvarna i.e. Gold is desired by every human for many centuries. The desire is not only for its ornamental or commercial value but also because of its great medicinal value by which it increases strength and immunity. Suvarna also helps nourish brain cells, improves memory and rids the body of deleterious toxins.

Ashuddha Suvarna if consumed hinders vitality and causes ailments but Shodhit Suvarna obtained after Shodhan process is like Nectar. Further Maran or Bhasmikaran with Parad makes the Suvarna Bhasma of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited of the Highest Quality. Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. takes care to standardize the Suvarna Bhasma prepared. This Suvarna Bhasma is tested both on modern as well as Ayurvedic parameters so as to standardize its safety and efficacy.

Suvarna Bhasma prepared at Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. is found to be free from Acute Toxicity and is undoubtedly safe. It has been certified on assay to be 99.66% pure at National Refinery. Suvarna Bhasma of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. is also found to be safe and free from any undue toxicity by UDCT [UICIT], Mumbai. The Studies conducted for Geno-toxicity and 90 Days Repeated Dose Chronic Toxicity confirmed that Suvarna Bhasma prepared by Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited is completely Safe.

Such a quality standardized Suvarna Bhasma is used along with other best quality standardized Bhasma and other ingredients to give Suvarnakalpa, which are Quality Standardized, Safe and Efficacious.

As water finds it difficult to remain on Lotus leaf so the disease too finds it difficult to stay in a body under the treatment with Suvarnakalpa. Suvarnakalpa can deliver results faster even if administered in a smaller dose.

Suvarnakalpa Standard Quality

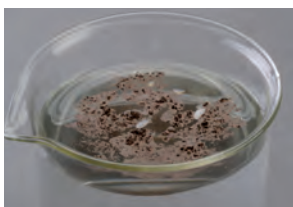

Standard Quality Suvarna Bhasma manufactured by Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited is also prepared Authentically, Standardised on Ayurvedic and Modern Quality Parameters and proven Safe Toxicity Studies.

Standard Quality Suvarna Bhasma is prepared as per the textual reference of Rasatarangini 15/49-52 . As per the reference the ingredients that are used along with Shodhit Suvarna are Shodhit Parad, Shodhit Gandhak, Shodhit Harital, Shodhit Hingul & Navasagar which are then processed in Nimbu Swarasa. The well dried Chakrika are prepared and kept in Sharav Samputa on Eranda Patra. A sealed Sharav Samput is then subjected to the heat to get dark black coloured Suvarna Bhasma.

Due to presence of Parad this is also a type of Parad Marit Bhasma and hence well potent and safe.

Due to the presence of other ingredients the percentage of Suvarna i.e. elemental gold goes down upto 18% in this Standard Quality Suvarna Bhasma.

Guggulkalpa

Guggul i.e. Commiphora wightii gives out a Niryas which is used as a major ingredient in Guggulkalpa. This Niryas is a secretion that oozes out from the Guggul plant twice in a year, once in the winter and the second time in the summer.

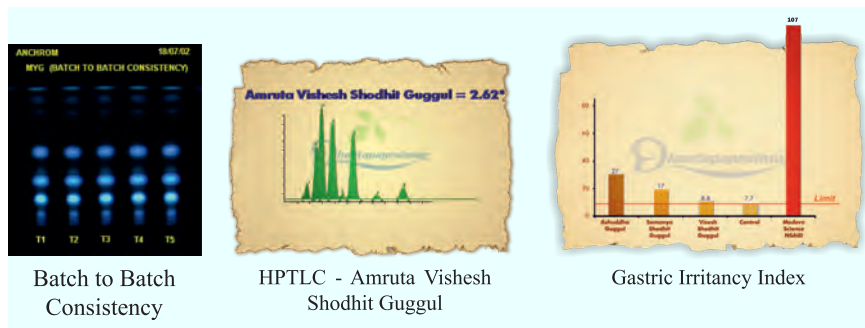

Guggul is added to various Choorna and at times Bhasma, to form an Amalgam which can be then molded into tablets. Guggul not only works as a binding agent but also has its own medicinal qualities.

At Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd., we follow stringent quality control measures.

Guggul has to undergo Samanya and Vishesh Shodhan before using it into medicines. Guggul is collected from a good quality source and is standardized by TLC Fingerprinting, HPTLC and Optical density. This good quality Guggul is subjected to controlled temperature and continuously stirred and then filtered by > 300 mesh to form Samanya Shodhit Guggul. Changes are noted in the HPTLC and optical density to standardize the process of Samanya Shodhan.

Vishesh Shodhan is a process carried out on Samanya Shodhit Guggul with Kwath or decoctions of Dravya like Amruta, Triphala, Dashamoola or fresh Gomootra. Vishesh Shodhan does potentisation which is standardized by HPTLC and optical density. Vishesh Shodhan makes the Guggulkalpa more potent and efficacious.

There are 14 Guggulkalpa products, prepared and standardized by Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. , currently available in the market.

Asava Arishta & Kadha

Every dosage form has been evolved as a result of some specific intention. It can also be said that these dosage forms have been evolved to bring about optimum use of medicinal properties in a particular form.

As described in the earlier chapters, the efficacy of the Panchavidha Kashaya Kalpana have been enhanced by certain procedures like Asava-Arishta, Avaleha etc. Asava-Arishta are prepared by undergoing process of Sandhan Prakriya i.e. fermentation. For instance Asava is prepared from Swarasa or Hima while Arishta is made from Kwath or Phanta i.e. in Asava there is no exposure to heat [Agni] while Arishta has Agni Sanskar involved in its making.

Generally in process of Asava-Arishta, 'Drava-Dravya' i.e. either Swarasa (Hima) for Asava and Kwath or Phanta for Arishta are mixed with 'Madhur Dravya' i.e. Guda (Jaggery), Sharkara (Sugar) or Madhu (Honey) and Sandhandravaya such as Dhataki Pushpa or Kinva (Yeast) are added into it. The mixture is kept for specific period in a closed container at controlled temperature as mentioned in texts. The process of fermentation produces self generated alcohol which acts as preservative.

Asava-Arishta deliver fast results, they invigorate the body, have long shelf life and are more useful even in small doses. Asava-Arishta are also checked on Ayurvedic parameters. Asava-Arishta made at Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited have been standardized by pH, TLC and Brix method. The standard level of self generated alcohol is maintained.

While doing treatment, it is essential to remember the Agni Sanskar performed during process in Asava-Arishta as, Asava are Sheeta Gunatmaka and heavy to digest as compared to Arishta and Arishta are easy to digest in less quantity due to Agni Sanskar.

Aravindasava is prepared from Dravya like Shweta Kamal etc. Being Agnideepan Aravindasava is a effective Asava in Rasa and Rakta Dhatu Poshan. It is useful in diseases of children like Karshya, Dourbalya as well as Karshnya etc. Aravindasava provides appropriate Jaliyansh and acts as Saptadhatuposhan in Balak.

This is the third form in the Panchavidhakashaya Kalpana wherein the medicinal plant [Dravya] is made into the form of Yavakuta, water is added to it, the mixture is boiled upto certain period so as the water remains $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$ or $\frac{1}{8}$ as mentioned in texts. It is then filtered, the liquid so obtained is called as "Kwath" i.e. decoction.

Care has to be taken that, while preparing the Kwath the flame has to be slow or else the Kwath Dravya may get burnt-out and would spoil the resultant Kwath. This may also hinder the expected results. So utmost care has to be taken in this aspect. Hence, instead of boiling, at Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. we allow the Kwath to just simmer in a steam jacketed vessel with a open lid. The steam jacketed vessel has temperature control and as the heat is uniformly spread the problem of the Kwath Dravya getting burnt out, is also checked.

The Kwath thus obtained is further standardized by Brix method. This gives consistency in the product and eventually the results.

The Dravya used for preparation of Kwath are hand picked to ensure best quality.

Kwath can be used as a single medicine or as an Anupan with other medicines.

Freshly prepared Kwath is generally difficult to preserve for longer duration. Hence, to have optimum use of them Kwath also undergoes the process that of Arishta.

A Raktashodhak Kwath with 'Manjishtha' and other ingredients that are Tvachya, Kushthaghna and Raktagami. It has effective Raktaprasadan action by improving tone, colour and complexion of skin. Rasakalpa Kalpa or formulations containing Rasa i.e. Parad as one of the ingredient are called Rasakalpa. At time Kalpa containing Yogik of Parad or different forms of Parad like Hingul or Rasasindoor are also called Rasakalpa.

अल्पमात्रोपयोगित्वाद् अरुचेरप्रसङ्गतः ।

क्षिप्रमारोग्यदायित्वादौषधेभ्योऽधिको रसः ॥ - र.र.स.

Rasakalpa are useful in small dosage, give quick results and restores health without developing Aruchi. Rasakalpa can be used even in complex diseases, they also have a longer shelf life.

As metals and minerals are used in Rasakalpa appropriate Shodhan & Maran of the ingredients is carried out at Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. to ensure safety and efficacy of the product.

Rasa or Parad itself or any other Dravya when processed with Parad [Maran] get converted into a form that is 'Rasarupa' i.e. which is easily assimilable with Sharirastha 'Rasa' Dhatu and thus such formulations are called Rasakalpa.

The main idea behind Rasakalpa is to make crude forms of metals & minerals etc. easily acceptable to the body tissues.

Kupipakva Rasayan

Kupipakva Rasayan as the name suggests are prepared and processed in a Kachakupi i.e. glass bottle. This type of Rasayan is considered difficult to prepare as the process needs to be meticulously followed to get the expected results. Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited's Kupipakva Rasayan are prepared in stringent condition. Dravya that are used in the manufacturing of Kupipakva Rasayan first undergoes Shodhan process to get expected benefits and to get desirable effects of the end product.

The temperature of the Valukayantra needs to be keenly monitored. After subjecting the Kachakupi [glass bottle] containing the mixture of the formulation to appropriate heat, the Kachakupi is allowed to cool down. This bottle is then broken by a special technique to separate the Kanthastha and Talastha parts of the resultant product.

'Kanthastha' means the one which is formed at the neck of the bottle while 'Talastha' means the one that is formed at the bottom of the bottle. One of which is formed at both neck and bottom of the Kupi is called as 'Ubhayastha'.

Some Kupipakva Rasayan like Rasasindoor, Mallasindoor, Poornachandrodaya Makardhwaja are Kanthastha while others like Sameerapannag and Suvarnarajvangeswar are Talastha. The ingredients used herein like Parad, Gandhak etc. have to undergo Shodhan process to check out undue toxicity from the resultant products.

Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. has established its expertise in preparing Kupipakva Rasayan to give excellent and consistent results.

This Sindoorkalpa is excellent Kapha Shoshak, Kupipakva Rasayan. It is Teekshna, Ushna and Uttejak for Phupphusa, Hrudaya and Vatavahini. Excellent Kaphashoshak in Shwas, Shleshmak, Shwasanak thereby relieves difficulty in breathing.

Guti Vati

Guti - Vati , a dosage form that is a step ahead of Choorna. The process is a bit more than that of Choorna, but has longer shelf life and is more effective. The dose of a drug can be made specific in Gut-Vati form, the compliance of the patient is also more as it is easy to carry and consume.

Various Choorna, Bhasma etc. are mixed as mentioned in the formulation and then some of the ingredients which are sticky in nature like Guda, Sugar, Guggul etc. or are in liquid form are mixed and then the mixture so formed is given the Gut-Vati [tablet] form.

Though the names Gutika and Vatika are according to their descriptions in the Ayurvedic texts then too now for the convenience and consistency to be maintained tablets are made. In past, tablets were handmade and which were difficult to disintegrate and digest in body.

Hardness, Friability, Disintegration time, Weight consistency etc. of Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited's tablets are tested to standardize the tableting process at Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd.

The hardness is maintained at the optimum level so that the tablet does not get converted into powder but at the same time, it can be easily broken into two pieces when needed.

Friability is tested so that the tablet reaches as it is to the end consumer without breaking, in the process of transport.

Disintegration time has to be low so as to give fast benefit.

Weight consistency is seen to deliver the exact dose of the medicine to the patient.

Loha Mandoor

Formulations containing Loha Bhasma and Mandoora Bhasma as one of the important ingredients fall in the category of Loha - Mandoora.

The deficiency of Loha i.e. Iron gives rise to various diseases or symptoms like Raktalpata, Pandu, Netra Roga, general weakness etc. These symptoms can be treated only by giving Loha. Mandoora is another form of Loha. Both Loha & Mandoora are made into Loha Bhasma & Mandoora Bhasma respectively by Shodhan and Maran so as to make it easily acceptable to the body.

Anaemia at times is due to Krumi i.e. worms and formulations like Punarnava Mandoora acts on Krumi as well as corrects Pandu.

Constipation which is seen in patients consuming iron in any other form, is not seen in patients consuming Loha - Mandoora Kalpa as the formulations take care of these problems themselves.

One can note the presence of Triphala etc. in the formulations and have a feel of the wisdom of the Ancient Ayurvedic seers.

Anaemia or Pandu Vydhi alongwith other associated symptoms is corrected by Kalpa in the Loha-Mandoora category, which does Poshan of Rasa - Raktadi Dhatu.

An excellent Raktavardhak & Shothaghna Yoga specially acting on liver with the ingredients like 'Punarnava' & 'Mandoora Bhasma'. In Pandu by acting on Liver as well as Pitta it helps in proper excretion of Mala as well as enhances blood circulation. Effective in Shotha being fortified with Gomootra. Pishti Pishti is the fine powder made by the process of Peshan [trituration]. Pishti is usually a Sheeta Gunatmak Kalpa. Pishti is prepared by doing Peshan of a powder with a liquid which is similar to giving Bhavana.

Sudha Kalpa and Ratna being soft and gentle need to be treated carefully. Shodhan of the Ratna is done initially followed by triturating it with Gulab Jala, Nimbu Swarasa etc. for the duration as mentioned in the textual reference.

Selection of best quality Akeek, Mouktik and Pravala is given utmost importance. Shodhan of the ingredients is done wherever required. After the process of Shodhan the Akeek, Pravala and Mouktik are triturated with Gulab Jala for specific period. Aushadhi made by this process is called as 'Pishti'.

Trituration is done on mechanized Khalvayantra which have been installed at Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. since more than a century. These mechanized Khalvayantra make the process of trituration uniform and eliminate human errors. This also assures the consistency of the Pishti.

Akeek is the precious gemstone famous for its cooling property. Akeek Pishti is prepared by triturating Akeek with Gulab Jala (Rose Water) for 7 days. It is also balya for Hrudaya (Heart) & Mastishka (Brain), hence useful in all Pittavikar, Disorders related to Hrudaya & Mastishka. Choorna Shelflife of Panchavidha Kashaya Kalpana viz. Swarasa, Kalka, Kwath, Hima and Phanta is very short.

When preservation of various herbs and their perennial use came into picture that time certain simple techniques came into existence, such as Choorna.

अत्यन्तशुष्कं यद् द्रव्यं सुपिष्ट वस्त्रगालितम् ।

तत् स्याच्चूर्णं रजः क्षोदस्तन्मात्रा कर्षसम्मिता ॥ शार्ङ्गधर संहिता

Choorna Kalpa is one such simple technique. In this the Dravya [herb] is dried and then pounded to form fine powder. This powder is sieved to obtain a powder with finest particles. This is called as Choorna.

Smaller the particle size greater is the area of contact and thus also the efficacy. This makes the powder more assimilable and the effect is seen faster. Choorna is made uniform using a Kuttan Yantra and it is further sieved through 80 mesh to give very small particles of the powder.

Sometimes Choorna is prepared by giving Bhavana of Kwath made of same Dravya this helps to fortify the Choorna and makes it more potent as compared to plain Choorna of the same Dravya. In this way the resultant Choorna becomes more efficacious even in small doses.

Choorna can be either of a single Dravya or is a mixture of multiple powders mixed in appropriate proportions as per the texts to deliver the desire results. Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. has brought a range of quality standardised Choorna. For consumption of exact quantity and convenency of the physician to dispence and patient to consume the Choorna, Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited has also brought some of the Choorna Kalpa in tablet form.

Bhasma

Bhasma which means 'Ash' in lay term has its unique place in Ayurvedic Therapeutics. Bhasma are basically made from metals and minerals [Dhatu and Khanij Dravya]. The process of Bhasmikaran is used to transform Dhatu and Khanij into Bhasma.

The metals and minerals obtained from ore has to undergo Sanskar like Shodhan, Maran, Amrutikaran etc. This makes them easily assimilable in the body.

The process is long, but meticulous observation and "in process standardization" makes it sure that the final product i.e. the Bhasma is properly formed and consistent.

At Shree Dhootapapeshwar Ltd. standardisation of Bhasma is done on Ayurvedic parameters like a] Samanya Pariksha and b] Vishesh Pariksha. Samanya Pariksha include Shabda, Sparsha, Roopa, Rasa, Gandha, Dhooma, Chandrika, Apunarbhava, Varitaratva, Unam, Sthiratva, Rekhapoorna etc. and Vishesh Pariksha include Dahakatva, Amla Pareeksha, Kachkach, Scratch test, Magnet test, Curd test etc. Such tests are done as described in the particular textual references of the Bhasma preparations.

Standardisation is also done on modern parameters like TLC Analysis, Loss on Drying, Acid Insoluble Ash, Loss on Ignition etc.

Parpati Kalpa

Parpati has an important place in Rasakalpa. Parpati is the form which is obtained in flakes, gets disintegrated in the body at the level of Grahani. Hence, it is specifically being used in Grahani related disorders and effective in correcting appetite. This dosage form is specially designed to show its action directly in the Grahani region i.e. in the duodenum region.

During the process of making Parpati Kalpa the ingredient are subjected to heat and melted, This molten mixture is further allowed to cool by pressing it in between two banana leaves over two cowdung cakes.

The process is such that the Agni gets locked into the Parpati Kalpa making it to act best in disorders related to Agnimandya. The dose form is such that it does not act in the stomach but instead starts its action in Grahani i.e. Duodenum.

Panchamrut Parpati contains Parad and Gandhak while Shweta Parpati is devoid of both Parad and Gandhak.

The Shodhan of the ingredients and the amount of heat to which the mixture is subjected is meticulously monitored to maintain standard and consistency in the quality of the product.

A wellknown Parpati Acting on digestive system specially 'Grahani' as Doshaghna, Jantughna & Balya. It calms the irritation & inflammation of intestinal mucosa by reducing laxity. Pottali Kalpa

From the root 'ल' with 'आय' Pratyaya the word Pottali has been formed.

विस्तारितस्य वस्तुनो अल्पऽपिभवनं पोष्टं पोष्टल इति गृह्णाति इति पोष्टली ।

Pottali in colloquial language means a roundish substance prepared by collecting scattered material into a compact comprehensive size.

Pottali Kalpana is prepared by considering two important points i.e. easy transportation and beneficial in low dosage form also. The Parad Kalpa got divided into 4 clear types : Khalvi Rasayan, Parpati Rasayan, Kupipakva Rasayan and Pottali Rasayan. The concept of trituration of Parad with equal amount of Shodhit Gandhak by weight to form Kajjali gave a material that was in solid state. Perhaps the thought of mixing Mercury & Gandhak when Gandhak is in the molten stage might have given rise to Pottali Kalpana.

The end product Pottali that gets delivered through the process of Pottali Karan has the advantage of being able to deliver potent medicines in small doses along with giving the end user the ability to have it in small doses which are easy to prepare & consume. The preservation of such a highly potent medicines is easy. Various Pottali have been mentioned in the text of Ayurved. However, taking into consideration today's lifestyle & diet related commonly found disorders, six specialized Pottali by Shree Dhootapapeshwar Limited are being brought into the market having niche areas of important applications not only in acute condition but in chronic ailments and conditions too.

Generally, Pottali are used in acute condition and at the last stage of life. However, Pottali proves effective in chronic ailments and acute conditions when used along with appropriate Anupan.

Abhragarbha Pottali is wellknown for it's use in disorders of Pranavaha Srotas Vikar. It is also useful in Kshaya i.e. Rajyakshma.

A special mention has been made in text for usefulness of this formulation in complications associated with Pregnancy.
